

MASSACHUSETTS PLOUGHMAN

William Buckminster, Editor.

SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 5, 1850.

THE NEW YEAR.

Our young friends generally will hail with joy the new year. Time moves slowly with them and they are glad to make another score in its progress. The time may come when they will think the years too short.

Time is now flying. Swiftly its moments move. All its moments. Who can show there is such a thing as rest? Age is years of time, but youth is a counter. Age takes time by the forelock, but youth anticipates his coming. Yet when time comes, time is not just the thing he was expected to be.

Full of promise was the first of January 1849 yet how unsatisfying the accomplishment. Well then let us not expect too much. Let us regulate our desires and be reconciled to the ordinances of a Providence that watches over all.

The new year will bring new resolutions, and a renewal of old promises of reformation. New vows will be broken, and crimes will assume new phases; but still it may be true that there is nothing really new under the sun.

Travelers will continue to recommend their axes and many will be cheated. The buyer will say his purchase is too high, but when he has gone he will be loath to leave. Thieves will continue to break through and steal, though some are punished for the offense. The rich will have much trouble in guarding their immense possessions, while the poor are in need of a guard.

Some will starve, cheat, and pilfer to enrich an heir, while others are troubled to find suitable heirs for their estates.

Farmers often tell large stories when they gain nothing by it. In this they differ much from traders, lawyers, and divines.

The Ploughman will continue to watch the improvements made in farming, and will leave all progress as fast as any machine. It will leave all progress as fast as any machine. It will leave all progress as fast as any machine.

We hope still to go on in our course with our old friends as heretofore—laughing where we may and weeping where we must. Many of our old friends and patrons have departed to the grave within the past year. We lament their loss; but hope they have found a better land where thistles never grow, and where cultivation meets its highest reward.

MEETING OF THE LEGISLATURE.

On Wednesday the Legislature of Massachusetts assembled. At eleven o'clock the Senate was called to order by Alexander D. Witt of Worcester, the senior Member; all the members chosen (31) were present.

Hon. M. P. Wilder was chosen President of the Senate, having received 20 votes. Charles Callahan was chosen Clerk, having 34 votes.

In the House, Mr. Lawrence of Belchertown called the Members to order at eleven o'clock. The number of Members present was 288. Esign H. Kilgus of Pittsfield was chosen Speaker, having 161 votes. Charles W. Story was chosen Clerk with 201 votes.

At twenty minutes past one the House adjourned to the Old South Church, where a Sermon was delivered by Professor Hittcock of Amherst College.

“The American Fowl-Breeder” is a very handsome little book of ninety pages just published by J. P. Jewett & Co. It treats of Breeding, Rearing, and Management of Poultry—of crossing, culling, and is embellished with engravings of Dorking, China and other fowls, by an Association of Practical Breeders. It may also be found at the Warehouse of Huggles, Nourse Mason & Co. Price, 25 cts.

GREENWOOD LEAVES. This is the title of a collection of Sketches and Letters by “A Green Woodsman,” in a very neat Volume of 406 pages. We commend it to the notice of the ladies who ought to encourage so agreeable an authorship. It is very appropriate for a gift-book. Published by Ticknor, Reed & Fields, 133 Washington Street.

The Farmer's Almanac for 1850 is published by Jencks, Palmer & Co. in pamphlet form. This is the one established by Robert B. Thomas in 1793. The old one went out, any longer its time is out.

Phillips, Sampson & Co., 110 Washington street, have just published “Pelican, or, The Adventures of a Gentleman,” by E. L. Bulwer. This is a new edition in pamphlet form. Price, 25 cts.

We acknowledge the favor of a copy of the Patent Office Report for 1848, from Hon. T. H. Benton, U. S. Senate.

Yesterday (Friday) noon, the weather was very mild and pleasant. The horses and sleighs were moving in our streets right merrily.

Mr. Wendell Phillips was the lecturer before the Mercantile Library Association on Wednesday evening. His subject was, “Social Reform.”

The trial of Cox is not finished. The evidence was all in on Thursday. The Judge charged the jury yesterday. The defence endeavored to make the crime out man-slaughter instead of murder.

We have received from the Hon. Mr. Winthrop a full copy of the President's Message in pamphlet form.

The Election Sermon. The Election Sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Hittcock, President of Amherst College. His general subject was the necessity of connecting religion with education and liberty, in the true conduct of a free State. While he contrasted the pernicious union of Church and State, he ally and ingeniously urged and illustrated the necessity of a free religion, as the basis of a free republicanism.

He pointed out, in history, the rise of Republics, which had not a religious foundation, and showed, by instances, that education and liberty have followed in the track of the circulation of the Bible. He maintained that the inseparable truth by which a Republic only can be maintained, is that of religion, education and liberty, united. This, indeed, would at some time bring about a true and beneficent union of church and state. The church government of the Scriptures is a true theocratic democracy. When all nations come under this rule, unless politics require measures which have no connection with morals, it would be impossible that, in the brotherhood of man, church and state could be apart.

The Rev. President closed a long discourse by an eloquent review of the effects of the influence of religion upon education and liberty, and the cause of good government, and with personal allusions to the highly moral and religious character of those who now, for six years, have filled the stations of Governor, and Lieutenant Governor of the Commonwealth, and with a successful course as the result of the administration of the Government for the ensuing year.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

The Steamship Cambria left Liverpool on Dec. 15th, and arrived at East Boston on the morning of the 30th.

The New York packet ship Caleb Grimshaw, about two years old, has been burnt at sea, off the Azores, and most unfortunately all her passengers, 300 in number, mostly emigrants, were saved.

The corn trade during the week ending on the 7th, continued dull and depressed, wheat and flour were coming in from Holland, France, and Belgium, but they would demand, to keep down retail, some 100,000 men; Hungary a similar number; Austria and Bohemia could not be left defenceless. The Corn would probably find enough to do in Turkey—England and Prussia would probably require a second invasion of Western Europe.

Kossuth's furniture has been sold by auction at Paris. The plainness of it was remarkable. His family have been liberated, and they intend to join him in Turkey.

The QUEEN DOWAGER'S FUNERAL was by her last request to be quiet and private as possible, as will be seen by the following from the London Gazette:

Whitehall, Dec. 10th. The Queen has been pleased to command, that the following directions be observed at the funeral of Her Majesty Queen Adelaide, for the funeral (to-day, Dec. 13) should be made public.

Her Majesty has desired that the directions, which are worthy of the exalted piety and unfeigned humility of the late Queen, should be, as far as possible, carried into effect, and for this purpose has been pleased to sanction a departure from the ceremonial usually observed in the funerals of kings and queens of the realm.

“I die in peace, and wish to be carried to the tomb in peace, and free from the vanities and pomp of this world.”

“I request not to be dissected, nor embalmed; and desire to give as little trouble as possible.”

“All those of my friends and relations, to a limited number, who wish to attend, may do so. My nephew, Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar, Lord High Chamberlain, the Hon. William Ashley, Mr. Wood, Sir Andrew Bannard, and Sir D. Davies, with my dressers, and those of my ladies who may wish to attend.”
